ISSUED BY THE GENERAL RECORDER,
BY ORDER OF THE GENERAL COMMANDERY.

History of the Naval Order.

THE NAVAL ORDER OF THE UNITED STATES developed from an informal gathering, in Boston, Massachusetts, on July 4, 1890, of a few persons interested in the naval history of our country.

A permanent organization was effected November 10, 1890, under the style and title of the Naval Commandery of the United States. The membership was restricted to officers and enlisted men of the Naval, Marine and Revenue-Marine services, and to their descendants, and was limited in number. This organization is believed to be the first hereditary society in which eligibility was dependent on purely naval service.

At the meeting of the Commandery, held November 10, 1892, action was taken to broaden the field of the association by the formation of a National body with branches in the different States. In connection with another society of a similar character (styled the Naval Legion of the United States and since dissolved), a provisional organization was effected on June 19, 1893, and the First Congress of the Order was held in the Armory of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company in Faneuil Hall, Boston, Massachusetts. At a Special Congress held August 15, 1893, the GENERAL COMMANDERY OF THE NAVAL ORDER OF THE UNITED STATES was fully constituted: the parent body becoming the MASSACHUSETTS COMMANDERY OF THE NAVAL ORDER OF THE UNITED STATES.

A change was also made at the same time in the eligibility clause of the General Constitution, membership being restricted in future to commissioned officers of the Navy and Marine Corps and to their descendants. Additional changes in the Constitution have since been made in the Triennial Congress, held in Boston, on October 5, 1895.

State Commanderies have likewise since been instituted and incorporated in Pennsylvania, New York, Illinois and the District of Columbia, at subsequent General or Special Congresses of the Order, held on August 15, 1893, April 23 and August 8, 1894, and October 5, 1895.

THE NAVAL ORDER therefore consists of the General Commandery and the State Commanderies. The legislative body for the whole Order is the Congress, which, composed of the General Officers and six Delegates from each Commandery, in accordance with the Constitution, meets in regular session every third year, on October 5th, the anniversary of the adoption by Congress in 1775 of the resolutions formally authorizing the fitting-out of the first ships of the Navy. It may also convene in Special Session upon the vote of the General Council, which meets semi-annually.

INSIGNIA. By the provisions of the Act of Congress of September 25, 1890, officers and enlisted men of the different branches of the services are permitted to wear the Insignia of the Order on all occasions of ceremony and when in full uniform.

Preamble.

Whereas, Many of the principal battles and famous victories of the several wars in which the United States has participated were fought and achieved by the Naval forces ;

Whereas, It is well and fitting that the illustrious deeds of the great Naval commanders, their companion officers in arms and their subordinates in the wars of the United States should be forever honored and respected ;—

Therefore, Entertaining the most exalted admiration for the undying achievements of the Navy, we the survivors and descendants of participants of those memorable conflicts, have joined ourselves together and have instituted the “ Naval Order of the United States,” that we may transmit to our latest posterity their glorious names and memories ; and to encourage research and publication of data pertaining to Naval art and science, and to establish libraries in which to preserve all documents, rolls, books, portraits and relics relating to the Navy and its heroes at all times,
